Mesa Community College Urban Horticulture and Agribusiness Program Awarded EPA Environmental Education Grant

Hispanic Business Magazine Sunday 14th September, 2014

(CUA). The Center will serve as a hub for the development and dissemination of educational programs focused on sustainable agriculture and community enhancement. One new course to arise from this program is Aquaponics AGS166. "Aquaponics is an advanced method of aquaculture where fish provide nutrients to grow plants which in turn filter water to sustain fish," said
